Are you willing to take part in the development of a flexible self-service platform that meets the demands of client's internal ad-business needs throughout the whole sales cycle?

If yes, then we are waiting for you!

Customer

Our customer is a leading provider of customized self-serve advertising platforms for publishers, which come with the best features of ad forecasting, one-to-one direct deals, proposal sending, various targeting options, and ad tools.

Project

The platform is an Ad-desk integrated with the publishers' ad servers (e.g., Google Double Click – DFP), CRM, and payment systems (Adyen). The main customers/users of the system are Publishers and small and medium advertisers who want to market their business among web, mobile, and print units. Publishers are Media owners and SMB are direct advertisers and various digital agencies, and sales companies.

Now we're starting a new project. The customer is an American subscription video on demand service. The main goal of the project is to help the customer improve internal processes and systems automation (as an example, to replace existing traffic and AdOps management system with the brand new one).
