About the AI Capabilities (AIC) team

The AIC team at the Pearson Poznań office is an R&D unit that creates AI Capabilities (systems that use AI methods to facilitate the process of human learning). The team consists of AI Scientists, AI Engineers, and Technical Project Managers.

Our role is to:

Design, build, and continuously improve customer-facing Intelligent Learning Capabilities across Pearson.

*Provide technical leadership * in the application of AI at Pearson.

We specialise in a variety of intelligent capabilities:

Cutting edge applications of LLMs to create new kinds of learning experience

*Adaptive modelling & diagnostic capabilities * that fast-track learners through a course of learning and identify struggling learners.

*Natural language processing-based assessment capabilities * that evaluate a learner's soft & hard skills through text or speech.

In our work, we often innovate around implementing psychometric ideas using the latest machine learning methods and prototyping innovative natural language processing methods.

by sponsoring conferences (ML in PL, Why R?, GHOST Day, Cloud & Datacentre Day), hosting meetups with communities like Women in Machine Learning & Data Science and Poznański Horyzont Danych, and hosting .
