Hello,

We are called People More because we treat our employees with respect, but also because the projects we work on are for people and should be easy and pleasant to use. We are technological, but we look at the bigger picture :)

People More has been in existence for over three years and is an offshoot of one of the country's oldest interactive agencies - Insignia. The company is made up of people with a huge client base in the country and abroad, for whom we build projects from scratch (UX, UI, frontend, backend, mobile) or in part. We work directly for our clients and also support our partners in their own solutions. This ensures a wide range of projects and the ability to change! We work with clients all over the world.

For a long-term project that we are wrking on with our foreign partner, we are building a small team. Part of this team will be a Test Manager

Your duties will include:

You will work remotely in a mixed team of People More specialists and client people

You will work in an international environment, in English. The projects are extremely interesting and support the management of complex cyber threats

You will be in constant communication with the team

Both the client and ourselves place great emphasis on the free flow of information and support between team members. This makes the work effective and enjoyable

Take the lead in improving our test automation system, including the implementation of test cases (utilizing Katalon Studio)

Lead the testing efforts when new software releases from third-party products are implemented on the infrastructure

For projects, assume responsibility for the entire testing process, including defining test requirements (functional and non-functional) for suppliers, coordinating the creation of test plans and cases (and creating them when necessary), overseeing testing, reporting test results, and making recommendations for quality improvements

Organize and lead risk identification and risk analysis sessions and use the results of such sessions for test estimation, planning, monitoring and control

Define, implement, and maintain quality assurance methodologies and processes that all stakeholders can rally behind

Ensure that performance and scalability is an integral component of all test strategies and project plans

You will be a very important part of the team creating high performance websites for a wide range of audiences!

Requirements that must be met:

Strong experience in test management and automation

Mobile network knowledge + CMP knowledge

Experience with test automation for IoT/cloud/telecommunication solutions

Able to work independently with little direct supervision and take initiative; willing to mentor and develop others

Knowledge of English and Polish at B2 level or above to communicate freely with the client and the team, and ideally experience of working in international teams

Openness and good cooperation with the team you are joining

It would be great:

ISTBQ or similar certification is a plus.

Experience with Katalon Studio is a plus.

German language skills are also a big advantage.

What we offer

What we offer:

We are open and honest and we solve problems instead of generating them.

Maybe it's obvious, but we really respect our employees and associates. We used to be software developers, too, and we appreciate that job!

A small team

An international working environment and international projects

Private medical care

Sports card

Training courses

Work that is 100% remote (unless you prefer another system)

We have an office in Kraków, but if you like to work remotely, that's absolutely fine. Over the next few months, we plan to continue working this way. After that, you decide according to what you prefer. We are OK with fully remote work. For us, you can be located anywhere.

If you are not sure if you meet the requirements, apply—we'll talk and give you an honest answer.

Why it's a good idea to work with People More?

If you are not satisfied with your work or your tasks, we'll find a way out together!

If you get bored, we will offer you a new product and new, fascinating tasks

We will work on your brand together: you will get an opportunity to attend conferences, including as a speaker, and we will help you publish in recognized magazines and online

We will facilitate your access to challenges that are usually difficult to get

At any time, you can talk directly to the board of People More—we talk your language because the company's founders are software developers and designers!
